

LOST, IN THE WEEDS

Chantal
Elise

It snowed
in Orange County
this year. Tornado,
too. (And a "hurricane?")

I often dream
about going back in time. I envy
with every fiber
of my being those that were lucky
enough not to have to worry about

CLIMATE CHANGE.

I blinked and my youth was gone and my sister and I were best friends and every adult my whole life was right about two things.

I can't wait for all the growth that this will bring.

My plants, parched, watching it rain profusely while I neglect watering them every week because I'm depressed and busy. Another casualty of capitalism.

Dear Reader,
Sorry this mini
zine was such a bummer but i hope
you liked it
anyway.